

Assistant/Associate/Full Professor
Environmental and Resource Economics
Department of Agricultural and Resource Economics
University of Connecticut

The Department of Agricultural and Resource Economics at the University of Connecticut (www.are.uconn.edu) is seeking applications for a full-time, nine-month, tenure-track position (50% Research & 50% Teaching) at the rank of Assistant, Associate or Full Professor beginning August 2010. Responsibilities include developing and/or maintaining a strong research program in the field of environmental and natural resource economics, teaching and advising graduate and undergraduate students, actively engaging in grantsmanship, and participating in multidisciplinary environmental initiatives.

Required qualifications include: a Ph.D. in Agricultural, Applied, Resource or Environmental Economics, or Economics, excellent training in economic theory, quantitative methods, and environmental and resource economics, and excellent communication skills. Equivalent foreign degrees are acceptable. Desired qualifications include demonstrated experience and success in teaching, research, and grantsmanship. Position rank will be commensurate with the successful candidate's qualifications and experience. At the full professor rank, this is a joint position with the Center for Environmental Sciences and Engineering, with collaborative and multidisciplinary research responsibilities to the Center.
