

Individual JEEM Subscriptions for AERE Members

AERE membership used to be coupled with a subscription to the Journal of Environmental Economics and Management (JEEM) but, starting with 2009 memberships, the two have been decoupled. This means that an AERE membership no longer includes a subscription to JEEM (although a subscription to the Review of Environmental Economics and Policy (REEP) is still included). The AERE past president, Trudy Ann Cameron, was instrumental in negotiating this decoupling with Elsevier (the publisher of JEEM) because so many of our members have access to JEEM through other means, such as ScienceDirect.

Elsevier will continue, however, to offer discounted JEEM subscriptions for AERE members who still want to subscribe individually. While it has taken some time to get this set up, it is finally ready to go. Originally, Elsevier had agreed to offer three options for discounted subscriptions: print (paper) only, on-line (i.e., electronic) only, and print plus on-line. However, they have now indicated that they do not currently have the capability to offer the on-line only option, so the only options available are print only ($55) and print plus on-line ($75). We will continue to try to work with Elsevier to get an on-line only option, but it is not available at this time.

If you would like to purchase a discounted individual subscription to JEEM (print only or print plus on-line), here is how to do it:
